Field Trip

An Ecological and Historical Outing Along the Missouri River

Sponsored by the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission

9:00am – 12:00pm

The Missouri River has been highly altered in the past century, including impoundment and channelization, eliminating thousands of acres of aquatic and terrestrial habitats, including many fringe and floodplain wetlands. The mainstem upstream impoundments have changed the natural hydrograph, temperature, and turbidity profile, which negatively affected many native species. The field trip will be by boat, with Nebraska Game and Parks Commission fisheries biologists who are very familiar with operating on the Missouri River. The several hour boat tour will begin and end in Nebraska City, and shuttles will be provided to get people to and from the boat ramp. During the tour, we will sightsee the current channelized Missouri River, visit a couple of early fish and wildlife habitat mitigation sites, talk about wetland restoration efforts, and discuss the associated Missouri River fish and wildlife species.

There is no charge for the field trip. Please come prepared for the weather and life jackets will be provided.

Thank you to our generous sponsors.
